About 2,800 Persons Present For Opening of SEIEC's Sixteenth Annual Convention

Talent Contest Held Last Night, Business Meeting and Election This Morning With Beauty Contest Set for Afternoon

The 16th annual meeting of the Southeastern Illinois Electric Co-operative got away to a fine start as some 2,800 persons attended the opening session Monday evening.

This morning the business session and election of four trustees were the chief items and this afternoon's schedule included a safety demonstration, entertainment and the selection of Miss SEIEC of 1955.

At the business meeting this morning, four trustees were elected as follows: J. D. Clemens of Pope county, H. H. Barlow of Gallatin county, Clarence Sutton of Saline county and Loyd Pickard of Franklin county.

Highlights of Contest

Highlight of last night's meeting was the talent contest, with a large number of entrants. Miss Virginia Elliott of McLeansboro, singer, won first place, Tommy Craggs of Eldorado was winner of second place and Pam Colbert, Leford, won third place honors.

Jim Bolen of WSIL-TV was master of ceremonies for the show and kept it moving at a good pace. Included in the talent contest were singers, dancers, instrumental soloists, pianists, organists and readers.

Miss Elliott, winner of third place in the 1954 contest, sang the popular number, "Twiddle-De-De." In taking first place, she received a $35 cash award and will represent the SEIEC at the state contest next month. She is from McLeansboro and a student at SIU.

Tommy Craggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Craggs of Eldorado, played two selections on the electric organ "Sizewalks of New York" and "Oh Suzannah." Second place prize money was $20.

Pam Colbert, winner of third place money of $10, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Colbert, Leford. She pantomimed "Put Me In Your Pocket."

The three winners were scheduled to appear on the program this afternoon.

Larger Turnout

Last night's large turnout was called "much larger than opening night last year" by Tom Clevenger, manager of the SEIEC office, located on Route 142 southeast of Eldorado. "We certainly are happy the folks came out and hope they will continue to look forward to our annual meeting," Mr. Clevenger declared.

The program was staged under a large tent located to the east of the SEIEC building. The grounds have a carnival appearance as there are many concession stands and merchants of the area have displays of their merchandise.

Eldorado's annual Fall Festival is being held this year in connection with the SEIEC meeting. Final session of the SEIEC will be held this afternoon and the opening session of the Fall Festival starts at 7:30 this evening. It is a horse show at the Eldorado softball diamond.

The festival will continue thru Saturday of this week.

French All-Out After Rebels

Start Offense Along 65-Mile Wild Frontier

Go After Tribes Responsible for Mass Killings of Settlers

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP) — Tank and air-supported French army troops launched a general offensive today against rebellious tribes responsible for the mass slaughter of French settlers in Morocco's wild interior.

Thousands of soldiers jumped off at 5 a. m. along a 65-mile front into the desolate reaches of the Khenifra and Khourigba region where four Berber tribes rose against French rule in a series of savage butcheries that brought death to nearly 1,000 in Morocco and Algeria.

First reports said the French had encircled the rebel territory at the foot of the Atlas Mountains and moved off into the arid rock-strewn hills to blast out all resistance nests in a series of systematic attacks against the Berber villages.

French forces attacked rebel forces in Algeria in the second day of a campaign there to wipe out the anti-French insurgents reported still fighting in the fourth day of bloody terror.

Today's offensive in Morocco centered in the rugged hill country 100 to 150 miles southeast of Casablanca and to the north of Marrakesh. It is wild mountain country where savage Arab tribesmen have lived for centuries.

Khourigba is a phosphate mining center devastated in the uprisings as it hit by a tornado. It is near the town of Oued Zam, scene of some of the bloodiest carnage of the entire rebellion.

Cannon of Marion Named Assistant Warden at Menard

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Lawrence Cannon, 59, Marion, Monday was named assistant warden at Menard Penitentiary by Gov. William G. Stratton.

Cannon succeeds Thomas O'Keefe, who resigned effective Sept. 1. Cannon was sheriff of Williamson county four years, formerly on the state police force and has served at Menard as a guard, guard lieutenant and captain.

Death Takes Mrs. Thomas Russell

Mrs. Essie Russell, widow of Thomas Russell who formerly lived at 611 East Locust, died this morning in Manteno, Ill. The body is being returned to the Harrisburg funeral home and will arrive late this evening.

Further information will be announced later.

Eugene Sutton, 50, Dies At Shawneetown Home

Eugene Sutton, 50, died suddenly at 4 a. m. today at his home in New Shawneetown.

Survivors include his wife, Marjory, and a son, Gene D. Sutton. The body lies in state at the Wright funeral home and funeral plans are incomplete.

Tennessee Governor Sees Parents of School Bus Dead

SPRING CITY, Tenn. (AP) — Gov. Frank Clement today ordered a three-way investigation of a freight train-school bus collision which killed 10 small children and injured 30 others at a Spring City grade crossing.

The speeding train Monday plowed into the side of the yellow bus toward the rear, tearing it into a twisted mass and scattering the killed and mangled children for 300 feet.

Among the slightly injured was the driver, Raymond Moore, 38, who said he saw the train and "prayed I would make it" but it was too late.

Clement promised stunned parents of Ideal Valley, where most of the children lived, that the state would "leave no stone unturned" to prevent a recurrence of such a disaster.

Governor To Meet Parents

The governor announced Monday night in Knoxville, Tenn., that he would arrive today to meet personally the parents of the dead children and tour hospitals of four other towns where the injured were taken.

Treatment Okay, Says Freed Flier

KIRISIL, Demilitarized Zone, Central Korea (AP) — Second Lt. Guy H. Bumpas walked to freedom today with his injured head swathed in bandages and said the treatment he received by the Communists who shot down his plane was "O.K., considering the circumstances."

A few moments later the Reds handed over a wooden casket containing the body of Army Capt. Charles W. Brown of West Louisville, Ky., who was killed a week ago when "trigger happy" Red gunners shot down the light plane piloted by Bumpas.

Bumpas, 23, of Jackson, Miss., arrived at this lonely exchange spot in a white ambulance. He stood wearing the flight suit in which he crashed, two Communist nurses at his side, while the United Nations command negotiated the final details of his release.

Bumpas' return to freedom was delayed 10 minutes while the U. N. command insisted that the Communists turn over the wounded man before delivering the casket of the dead Army captain.

Flown to Hospital

Because of the lieutenant's physical condition, the American officials said, he should be returned first. The Reds hesitated a few minutes and then agreed. They indicated earlier Bumpas had suffered a fractured skull.

Col. Harold Dye of Atlanta, Ga., head of the U. N. joint observer team in the area, formally received Bumpas and the body of the dead captain. He signed a receipt and handed it to the Reds.

About 30 North Korean and Chinese Communist officers and soldiers took part in the dramatic exchange near a bombed-out bridge in the no man's land of the Korean truce.

Bumpas shook hands with his Red captors when freedom finally came and he walked to the waiting Americans and a helicopter which flew him to the 121st Evacuation hospital at Ascot City near Inchon.

Reporters asked him about his treatment.

"It was all right. It was O.K., considering the circumstances. I was treated very well," he said. "I got all my personal belongings back."

Rains in East, Cool Weather Pushes into Ohio River Valley

By United Press

Rain drummed again today on Atlantic coastal states still mopping up from the most damaging flood in U. S. history.

The new rains fell over the flood areas of Pennsylvania and New York. Brookville, Pa., got 1.27 inches in six hours and Parkersburg, W. Va., 1.20. Farther south, Baltimore, Md., was soaked by 1.93 inches in six hours and Washington, D. C., by 1.40.

Meanwhile, the Brownsville, Tex., and Miami, Fla., weather bureaus said they have reports of two separate potential hurricane areas in the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico.

Another band of thundershowers stretched from the Texas Panhandle across Oklahoma to Arkansas. To the north, cool Canadian air continued to push back a heat wave. The cool front dropped temperatures as much as 24 degrees in the Midwest Monday and was draining southward across the Great Lakes into the Ohio River Valley today.

Jet Ends First Lap of One-Day Round Tripper Across Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP) — A British twin-jet bomber completed the first lap of a one-day round trip across the Atlantic in 7 hours, 30 minutes and 53 seconds today and took off again at 10:23:40 a. m. (EDT) for London.

If the plane finds return tailwinds equal to the headwinds it battled on its westward lap, it should finish the trip in less than the 14 hours hoped for by its two crewmen.

Dirksen Backs Move to Draft Mr. Eisenhower

Believe State GOP To Run Same 'Team' Again in 1956

By TOM NELSON

United Press Staff Correspondent

DE KALB, Ill. (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen today stood squarely behind a proposal to "draft" President Eisenhower, if necessary, to head the 1956 Republican ticket.

Dirksen told a reporter he is "inclined to believe" that Mr. Eisenhower will announce his candidacy for a second term. However, Dirksen said "I would certainly subscribe" to a "draft" movement if that should become "necessary."

Gov. William G. Stratton called for a "draft Eisenhower" movement in a speech at the Illinois State Fair last week.

Dirksen was here Monday night to speak at a rally.

Wright Can't Run

The consensus among the Republican leaders who came here from a wide northern Illinois area and from Springfield was that the state GOP will run the same "team" again in 1956.

Though neither has announced, Dirksen and Stratton both are expected to run again, as are Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter, Lt. Gov. John W. Chapman, and Atty. Gen. Latham Castle. Orville E. Hodge already has made public plans to seek a second term as state auditor.

Elmer Hoffman, Wheaton, who was state treasurer in 1952-54, is expected to announce for that office again at an outing Wednesday. The present state treasurer, Warren E. Wright, is prohibited from succeeding himself.

Wright's plans are a question mark.

Arrest Three More in Drive Against Speeders

Three more arrests in the drive against speeding in Harrisburg were made Monday, Police Chief Ross Lane reports.

Two of those arrested were youths playing "tag" in their automobiles on South Granger street.

This makes a total of 11 arrests in less than a week by members of the Harrisburg police department in the drive to stop speeding on Harrisburg streets. The drive will continue, according to Chief Lane.

Plane Hits 3 Homes; Dead May Be 15

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — A C119 Flying Boxcar crashed on takeoff into a residential area early today and 15 persons may have been killed.

It was believed that all 11 crew members of the huge troop carrier met death, along with 4 civilians killed in their sleep when the plane plummeted into the residential neighborhood, demolishing three houses.

Newsreel cameraman Bob Kennedy of WCSC-TV said an Air Force doctor working feverishly at the scene told him "there were no survivors" among the crewmen on the big plane.

The Charleston Air Force Base public information office declined to say how many men were killed, but admitted there were 11 airmen aboard the plane, which blew up after it crashed.

The crash occurred shortly after the troop carrier took off from the Charleston Air Force base on a routine night training mission. It was just after 2 a. m. EST.

Capt. Silas B. Welch, of the Charleston county police accounted for nine of the deaths. He said he knew of five Air Force men killed and four civilians and "several others" were missing.

The highway patrol said "another Air Force body" had been removed from the wreckage after Welch's report.

Welch said the victims "haven't been positively identified yet," but that the four civilians were occupants of three homes which were demolished when the big plane plowed into them and exploded.

The Air Force refused to comment on the number killed, but said there were 11 airmen aboard the plane.

Strike Against 18 International Harvester Plants

CHICAGO (AP) — About 40,000 CIO United Auto Workers went on strike against 18 International Harvester Co. plants in six states today, but negotiations to reach a settlement continued.

The nationwide walkout became official at 1:01 a. m. (EDT) when the old five-year company - union pact expired. Almost 30,000 workers had already jumped the gun and walked out at nine of the farm machinery company's plants.

Negotiations continued after the strike deadline, but were recessed at 3:30 a. m. (EDT). They were scheduled to resume later today.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice-president in charge of Harvester workers, said early today "We are far apart on a number of issues, but none of the unsettled points is beyond settlement if management is as willing to apply itself as is the union."

The plants involved are located in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, and California.

Some of the biggest concentrations are in the Chicago area, where four plants employ 17,000 workers, and in the Illinois quad-cities region, where there are two plants.

Gus R. Syers Dies; Seriously Ill Nine Weeks

Funeral Thursday Afternoon at First Methodist Church

Gus R. Syers, 68, a retired machinist last working with the Delta Collieries, died at his residence, 503 South McKinley, today at 2 a. m. He had been seriously ill for the past nine weeks.

Mr. Syers was the son of the late John and Rosine Syers, born Dec. 12, 1886. He married the former Clarabell Newkirk in 1915. She preceded him in death, dying in March of 1943. On May 11, 1945, he married the former Minnie Noland, who survives him.

Mr. Syers had been a resident of Harrisburg since 1916, was a member of the Board of the First Methodist church, a member of the Methodist Men's Club, a 32nd Degree Mason and a Master Machinist. He was also a member of the operating committee of the local water board.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the First Methodist Church. Rev. W. L. Cummins will officiate, assisted by Rev. J. D. McCarty, and burial will be in Sunset Lawn cemetery.

Survivors include his wife, Minnie; a stepdaughter, Mrs. John Ewan, Eldorado; a sister, Mrs. Loe Caldwell of Sturgis, Ky., and two nephews whom he reared: Douglas Syers, Sturgis, Ky., and Charles Sigler, Honolulu, Hawaii.

The body lies in state at the Gaskins funeral home.

President Sees Ruin, Pledges Federal Money

Holds Conference With Governors of 6 Hard-Hit States

By WARREN DUFFEE

United Press Staff Correspondent

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he would call a special session of Congress "if necessary" to get federal funds for disaster relief in the flood-stricken eastern states.

Grimly and forcefully, the President pledged the full facilities of the federal government during a conference with governors of six hard-hit states at Bradley Field, Windsor Locks, Conn. near here.

He met with the governors immediately after landing in gloomy weather this morning for an aerial inspection of the flood-ravaged areas. His view, however, was partly spoiled by soupy weather and low-hanging clouds. Mr. Eisenhower made the flying survey after a night flight from Denver, where he has been vacationing.

Appeals for Help

His face reddening and his voice rising with feeling, Mr. Eisenhower said in a statement for press, radio and newsreels that he will ask congressional leaders immediately for authority to spend as needed to help the flood areas.

He said he hopes a way will be worked out so the money can be obligated now and appropriated when Congress reconvenes in January.

But "if necessary, I will call a special session to get the money," he declared.

E. Roland Harriman, chairman of the American Red Cross, and Federal Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson flanked Mr. Eisenhower as he sat at a plain table in a cavernous aircraft hangar on the gloomy, overcast airfield.

The governors of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and other officials sat at the table or clustered behind them as the President spoke.

A "Terrible Thing"

Peterson estimated it may take 75 million dollars in federal aid for the eight states in which major disaster areas have been declared by Mr. Eisenhower. Only $115 million dollars is available now in the President's emergency fund, he said.

Mr. Eisenhower renewed his urgent appeal for the American people to contribute heavily to the American Red Cross drive for emergency funds to help the flood victims.

He said the federal, state and local governments cannot do it all because of necessary laws restricting their activities.

"Everybody within the sound of my voice will sleep better tonight if he turns in everything that he can spare to meet this great disaster that has happened to our fellow Americans," the President said.

Mr. Eisenhower's only good look at the flood-damaged area was in the Naugatuck River valley around Ansonia and Derby, Conn. Some of the worst damage of last week's disastrous floods occurred in that highly industrialized valley.

He told newsmen aboard his plane that the flood is a "terrible thing" and "the big thing is to get relief in here."

Federal Disaster Areas

Mr. Eisenhower returned to Washington at 11:32 a. m. EDT and will fly to Philadelphia Wednesday for a speech to the American Bar Assn. He will stop briefly in Washington after the speech. There he will be joined by Mrs. Eisenhower, and then fly back to Denver late Wednesday to resume his work-and-play vacation.

Cost of Living Rises In July; Food Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living in July showed the largest increase of the last 14 months, mostly because of rising food prices.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today the gain was 3 of 1 per cent.

Small as it was, the increase means a penny-an-hour wage rise for some 650,000 General Motors and Ford Motor Co. workers and for 200,000 in other industries.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Bad Luck Follows Those Who Testified In Army-McCarthy Hearings: Tammany Boss Warns That Adlai Can't Carry New York: Democrats Already Start Presidential Sparring.

WASHINGTON. — Something seems to happen to people who get mixed up in the Army-McCarthy dispute. They get fired, resign, lose their jobs.

Bob Stevens, secretary of the army and center of the controversy, has just resigned. He wasn't happy in the Pentagon; also Ike wasn't happy with him. John Adams, the army counsel, also got out, and for a long time couldn't seem to connect with a good law firm. Only last week did he get happily situated.

John Kane, public relations man to Stevens, got out after Stevens began knocking under the McCarthy senators over Cohn and Schine, while Lt. Col. Jean Wood, who worked night and day helping Stevens on the McCarthy probe, suffered a heart attack and has retired on disability.

Latest casualties of the Army-McCarthy probe are three career members of Stevens' office staff who were called upon to testify at the hearings. They were transferred or downgraded three hours after the new secretary of the army, Wilbur Brucker, took office. Brucker is a well-known friend of McCarthy's.

The three are: 1. Jack Lucas, appointment secretary to the secretary of the army, who had held that post for five years. His predecessor, John Schott, held it for thirty years. It's a career, civil service job, but Lucas was called to testify in the hearings against McCarthy and did so. He was downgraded and transferred.

2. Mrs. Jane Pike, who listened in on Roy Cohn's phone conversations, as all their stenographers have done — on orders — for years. She so testified at the Army-McCarthy hearings. Mrs. Pike is a war widow with civil service, but was transferred.

3. Col. Kenneth Belieu, executive officer to Secretary Stevens, testified that he was present when Roy Cohn was barred from a secret laboratory at Ft. Monmouth, which caused Cohn to remark that he would "get" revenge on the army.

Belieu, knowing the new secretary of the army was a friend of McCarthy's, found himself a job on Capitol Hill. He just got under the wire.

For Brucker took the oath of office at 12:45 noon. At 4:00 p. m. the three were told their services would not be needed.

That's the roll call of what happened to people who got sucked into the Army-McCarthy dispute—a dispute which rocked the Senate and the nation—all because poor little rich boy G. David Schine didn't want to get drafted into the army.

DE SAPIO SAYS NO

The Democrats have decided that they're still Democrats. They are squaring off for the usual hot and heavy battle for the presidential nomination—whether Ike runs or not.

Here are the latest backstage moves in the Democratic presidential picture:

SECRET MOVE NO. 2 — Made in California by Paul Ziffren, Democratic national committeeman, and Congressman Harry Sheppard of San Bernardino, to block Kefauver from getting California's potent 68 delegates.

At Chicago in 1952, California was solid for Kefauver. Its delegates cheered, wept, refused to believe it when he finally admitted defeat. Signs point to the probability that Kefauver would sweep California again.

But Ziffren and Sheppard, strong for Adlai, have hatched a secret plan to have California delegates appointed by a committee of nine Democrats, stacking the cards against Kefauver.

Behind De Sapiro's talk with Pittsburgh's politically potent Dave Lawrence is partly the fact that De Sapiro is for his friend, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, partly the fact that he wants to avoid bitterness in the Democratic party. If delegates get frozen in advance, if the party bosses try to sew up their states in advance, then a bad-blood, cat-and-dog fight is certain.

It so happens that most of the top Democratic candidates are good personal friends. Stevenson and Harriman are intimate. Kefauver campaigned hard for Adlai, recently had a pleasant lunch with him in Chicago. Governor "Soapy" Williams of Michigan knows all of them.

So De Sapiro says: "Let's keep the game spread out in open-field running. In bitter line-bucking too many players get hurt."

"LITTLE MAN" WITHOUT COUNTRY

It looks like Carlos Marcello, longtime boss of the New Orleans underworld, might become a man without a country. Though he's been ordered deported, he has no place to go. Italy doesn't want him and France won't take him.

The public troubles of Carlos Marcello probably began with a Washington Merry-Go-Round column of October 12, 1950—the anniversary of a day when a great Italian discovered America. For "Little Man" Marcello, it was the beginning of a five-year drive to send him back to Italy.

This column at that time called attention to the fact that he had been picked as Mafia boss of Louisiana by Frankie Costello, that he operated the famed Beverly Country Club with Costello and Dandy Phil Kastell; that he had served a year and a day for marijuana violation; also served nine to 14 years for assault and robbery; was pardoned by Governor "OK" Allen, was arrested four times since his pardon but was able to intimidate witnesses into not testifying against him; that he pistol-whipped Joe Almarico, led a raid of strong-arm men into the El Rico Club; owned dozens of bars, taverns, garages, and part of the Dixie Coin Machine Co.

Finally, after Senator Kefauver got on Marcello's trail, and after further spot-lighting in this column, Attorney General McGranery in the closing days of the Truman administration put Marcello on the list for deportation.

The deportation order has now gone through, and been upheld by the U. S. Court of Appeals. But one serious problem has developed. Marcello was born in Tunis, at a time when it was French. Therefore, although an Italian, Italy won't take him, says he must be returned to France. The French consulate, on the other hand, says he's Italian, so won't take him into France.

If this is not ironed out he may be that "Little Man" Marcello will become a man without a country—but remaining in the United States.

IT HAPPENED IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS:

The Legend of Tuckawanna-- A Piankishaw Indian Warrior

By Irvin Peithman
Southern Illinois University
(The following is an excerpt from Irvin Peithman's new book, "Echoes of the Red Man," published by Exposition Press, New York. The John Allen series will be continued by various contributors pending Mr. Allen's serious illness.)

Tuckawanna, a Piankishaw Indian brave, lived in a Piankishaw village near the Wabash river about the year 1800, according to a southern Illinois story that has been told for more than a century.

Chief of the village was Red Wings, given this name by his people because he wore the feathers of the redwing blackbird in his hair.

Red Wings was a good chief and was popular. He believed that his people should live in peace with neighboring tribes and that the hatchet of war must remain buried as long as he was chief. He knew that his village would be destroyed if he led his people into a war.

In this village there lived a fiery young warrior called Tuckawanna, meaning "Panther Hound." He received this name because he had killed near the village a huge panther which feared neither man nor beast and which had been killing deer near the salt lick. While hunting, two Indian warriors from the village had been attacked and severely injured by the panther. The other Indians were afraid to leave the village for fear of being attacked by this dreaded beast. They believed in their superstitious way that this panther was a supernatural creature and could not be killed.

Tuckawanna scoffed at such idle talk and showed no fear as the other villagers did. Tuckawanna, a brave and shrewd Indian, fashioned a large hunting knife and made a hiding place in the thicket near the salt lick where the deer and the elk came during the night to lick the salty earth. On the third night as the deer came down the wooded trail to the salt lick near where Tuckawanna was hiding, the great panther leaped from the bushes onto an unsuspecting deer, pinning it to the ground and crushing it with its great paws.

As soon as this great animal began to lap the blood, Tuckawanna sprang from his hiding place and plunged his sharp knife into its heart. The panther let out an unearthly scream and died at Tuckawanna's feet. He dragged the beast to the nearby village where the others proclaimed him a great warrior and hero for his bravery in destroying this animal.

Tuckawanna became more arrogant, and as time passed he became restless and did not care to hunt the deer and the bear. He loved war and wanted to be chief of the village. He denounced Chief Red Wings, who favored peace, and with fiery zeal and in burning language taunted the villagers with memories of past wrongs and bitter feuds with neighboring tribes. However, Tuckawanna's wild speeches did not impress his fellow men because they were loyal to Red Wings.

Body Never Found

Tuckawanna then became very angry and made plans to kill Red Wings so that he might become the chief of this Piankishaw village. He knew that Red Wings was accustomed to going to the salt lick at night to hunt deer. Tuckawanna made very careful plans and concealed himself behind some logs near a large sycamore tree that stood between the river and the trail over which the deer traveled to the salt lick.

Tuckawanna waited in hiding and when Red Wings came to the tree and seated himself, Tuckawanna killed Red Wings with one blow of his tomahawk. Red Wings' body fell into the Wabash river and never was found.

After committing this crime, the cruel Tuckawanna knew he would be suspected and accused by the villagers. He became panic stricken at the thought of almost certain revenge and fled to another Indian village at Hanging Rock on the Wabash river where he found refuge. In time he was adopted into this tribe.

Tuckawanna again became bold and aggressive and proved himself again to be a great hunter and warrior; however, he did not tell anyone why he had fled from his village.

Rejected Suitor

Chief of the Hanging Rock village was known as the "Grand Door of the Wabash." His beautiful daughter was called "Nantahalo," meaning "The Evening Twilight." Her lover was a young warrior, Callusaba, meaning "The Sweet Waters." Tuckawanna tried to win Nantahalo from Callusaba, but Nantahalo remained true to her lover. The old chief liked Tuckawanna very much because of his prowess, so when Tuckawanna asked the chief for his daughter the chief consented. But Nantahalo would have nothing to do with him. Tuckawanna, the rejected suitor, swore that he would kill Callusaba.

Late one summer evening he saw Nantahalo sitting on a rock overlooking the Wabash river near the village, not knowing that her lover Callusaba was hiding guarding his sweetheart. Tuckawanna walked boldly up to Nantahalo and told her to flee with him to a Shawnee village to the south on the Ohio river. When she refused, he seized her and was about to hurl her into the raging river below when Callusaba came out of hiding. He seized Tuckawanna by his long black hair and plunged a knife blade deep into his body and rolled it into the river below. Later his body was found by some Piankishaw hunters from his former village. It was lodged in some driftwood near the spot where several years before Tuckawanna had killed Chief Red Wings.

Yes, according to the legend, Nantahalo and Callusaba were married and lived happily ever after.

Latex backing, after being applied, is dried and cured in gas-fired ovens. Gas is supplied Aldon Rug Mills in Lenni, Pennsylvania, by the Philadelphia Electric Company, a customer of Texas Eastern.

Natural gas transported by Texas Eastern aids Aldon Rug Mills in adding a safety factor to modern scatter rugs. Aldon makes a new and popular tufted rug with a non-skid latex rubber backing. To cure and dry this latex backing and keep up with fast production schedules was a tough heating problem. A special gas-fired oven with four different and critical temperature ranges solved the problem. Aldon chose gas because it is clean, flexible and provides instant heat.

Social and Personal Items

Mrs. Hattie Moyer Hostess
To Naomi Ruth Class

The Naomi Ruth Sunday school class of the Pankeyville Baptist church met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Hattie Moyer for the regular class social.

The meeting was opened by the group singing "Amen, Amen, Amen" and with prayer by Mrs. Fannie Owen, Mrs. Blanche Shacklett and Mrs. Moyer. Mrs. Fern Waddell gave the devotion, reading the 13th chapter of first Corinthians and talking on "Love."

Roll call was answered with a verse of scripture containing the word "awake."

It was announced that officers for the coming year will be elected at the next meeting.

Mrs. Gertrude Hayes was in charge of the recreation. The social was planned as a "half and half" affair. The ladies were asked to dress half one way and half another. Mrs. Ruth Gates had the most complete outfit which was a black and white creation. Mrs. Hayes also conducted other contests featuring clothing.

Mrs. Moyer served refreshments of homemade ice cream and cookies with cold drinks to the following: Mrs. Blanche Lauderdale, Mrs. Nancy Sadler, Miss Flo Bourland, Miss Carolyn Hayes, Mrs. Gates, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Owen, Mrs. Waddell and Mrs. Shacklett.

Mrs. Jane Irkman and children, Jim and Emily, arrived yesterday from Dubuque, Ia., to spend the next 10 days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Mitchell and brother, Edward T., at 263 East Walnut street.

Sharon Heatherington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Heatherington Jr., returned home Saturday after spending the week in Evansville, Ind., with her cousin, Chris Cornaghi.

HISTORIC STEEPLE REPLACED—Boston's North End is back to normal. Once again children play in Paul Revere Park under the statue of Paul Revere and the steeple of the Old North Church. A glistering new white four-ton spire was put on the church, exactly 309 days after the old spire was toppled in Hurricane Carol last August. (NEA Telephoto)

Miss Shirley Joann King
Weds Edward Lee Clayton

The marriage of Miss Shirley Joann King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hurley King, Harrisburg, Route 2 to Edward Lee Clayton, son of Mrs. E. L. Clayton, 508 South Commercial street, Benton, and the late Mr. Clayton, took place at four o'clock August 7, 1955, at the First Methodist church, Harrisburg.

White chrysanthemums and gladioli provided decoration for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. W. L. Cummins, pastor of the church.

Mrs. Ruth Thompson, former music teacher of the bride, provided organ nuptial music.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace sheath dress, accented by a blue slip and matching blue linen jacket. Her headpiece was a small headband with lily of the valley flowers. She carried a white Bible with white chrysanthemums and white streamers.

Mrs. Marlene Johnson, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a pale yellow chiffon dress with matching headband and a huge corsage.

Mrs. King's dress was a figured white and navy blue crepe. With it she wore a navy blue hat and a yellow corsage. The bridegroom's mother was in black chiffon with white accessories. She wore a pink corsage.

Herman S. Clayton was his brother's best man. Jerry Rann King, brother of the bride, seated the relatives and limited number of guests.

A reception for members of the families and the bridal party took place in the dining room of the Forty-Five cafe. Hostesses at the reception were Mrs. Hugh Rann and Mrs. Harry Rann, aunts of the bride.

The couple took a two weeks' vacation trip to Billings, Montana, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Clayton and family, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Clayton, a registered nurse, is a graduate of St. Mary's hospital school of nursing in Cairo, Mr. Clayton is a veteran of World War II. Both are employed at Veterans' hospital, Marion, and are living at 809 W. Main in Marion.

Royal Daughters Have Picnic At Karel Park

The Royal Daughters of the Dorrisville Social Brethren church and their families met recently at Karel Park for a picnic.

The president, Mrs. Nancy Blue, read from the 125th Psalm, and prayer was offered by Walter Owens, Mrs. Rose Morse and Mrs. Alta Dixon.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morse, Mrs. Carrie Randolph, Mrs. Goldie Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard Kincaid, Mrs. Alta Dixon, Mrs. Essie Souheaver, Mrs. Gertie Cook, Miss Janet Cook, Carl Sue, Evelyn, Randy Richardson, Garry Bennett and Corky Blue.

H. E. Mitchell Sr. is a patient in the McMillan hospital in St. Louis where he underwent minor surgery recently. His room number is 701. He will remain there for three weeks.

Calendar Of Meetings

The Suzannah Wesley Sunday school class of the First Methodist church will sponsor a benefit Coke party from 9 to 11 a. m. Wednesday in the church parlor. Everyone is invited.

The Methodist men of the Harrisburg First Methodist church will have their regular monthly meeting tonight with a picnic at the Buck Russler cabin west of town. All men and their families are invited and supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. Table service will be furnished.

X-Ray Machine Leads To Confession; So Says Prison Newspaper

ANGOLA, La. (AP) — A convict at the Louisiana State Prison mistook an X-ray machine for a lie detector, and confessed, according to the Angolite, a prison newspaper edited by inmates.

The Angolite quoted laboratory technician M. B. Dale as reporting that the prisoner, led to the X-ray machine for a routine health checkup, gazed in fright at the apparatus and said:

"I'm ready to sign a confession. Just don't make me take that lie detector test."

You Can't Please All The Voters All the Time

ALLEGAN, Mich. — Members of Allegan's City Council wish residents who live along Fifth, Wayne and Kalamazoo streets would make up their minds.

One week, the council received a petition asking the city to put road oil on the dirt streets "as soon as possible." The council saw to it that the request was carried out promptly.

Then a petition arrived asking the city "never again to apply oil to our streets."

"Guess the only solution to the problem would be to blacktop the streets," one council member said.

Ertons Report Property Sales In Local Area

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Slaton, who live on North Main street and have had in progress the erection of a new modern home at 1005 South Webster street, for several weeks, plan to occupy their new home about Sept. 15. Their present residence has been sold through Erton Real Estate brokers to Mr. and Mrs. Lendell Trammel. Mr. Trammel is in business with his father, who operates the Trammel Propane Gas Co., on North Jackson.

Ertons also report the sale of the home of Mrs. Bonnie Fern, 215 West Walnut to Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Griffith, who now occupy their new home. He is employed by the Pankey Bakery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ulysses Vaughn have bought the Pearce Irvin home on South Chaney street, and Mr. and Mrs. Andy Kevish bought the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry King, 506 West College. The Kings have gone to Miami, Fla., to live.

Mr. and Mrs. William Absher of Carrier Mills have bought the modern cottage formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bond on Rt. 13 west of Harrisburg.

Mr. and Mrs. James McDowell have bought the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Booten, 16 West Midkiff street. Mr. McDowell is connected with the Schlumberger Co., that recently moved to Harrisburg from Mt. Carmel.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Sowers Jr. have bought and will occupy soon the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Dudonis, 1224 South Jackson, who are going to California to live and are at present selling their household furnishings.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Tucker, 500 West Church, sold their home to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vinyard, and the Elzo Harper home on West O'Garra street was sold to Mrs. Delcie Broadway, all of these sales being made through the Erton Real Estate brokers.

Birthday 'Cards' Sung by Clooney

NEW YORK — It used to be Western Union messengers who sang birthday greetings.

Now it's Rosemary Clooney. One company is out with a happy birthday "card" in the form of a record, featuring the vocalist. She has made eight versions — addressed to your choice of wife, husband, sweetheart, mother, dad, sister, daughter and if you want to get sentimental, darling. (Gibson Musicards, New York).

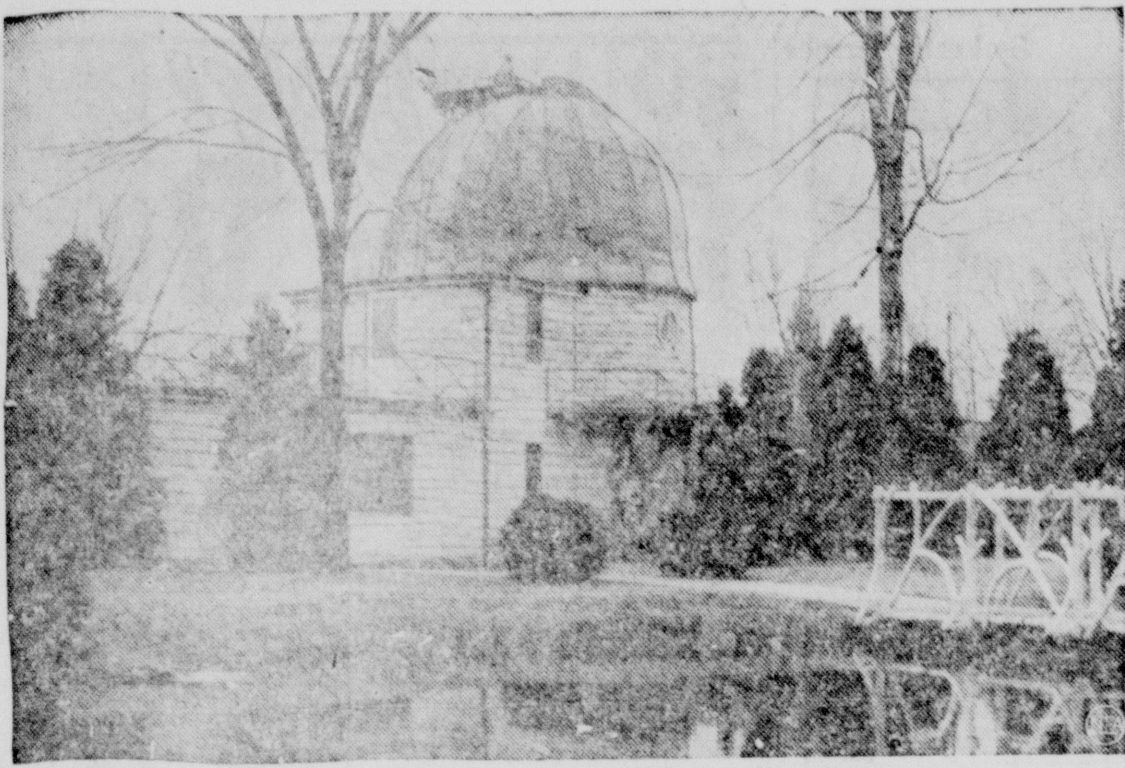

Road-Grader Parked, Unmissed, for Weeks

OMAHA, Neb. — Mrs. Della Pearson obliged when "a nice man" asked if he could leave a road-grader in her yard overnight.

Seven weeks later, however, the man hadn't returned and the huge machine continued to adorn her yard.

Mrs. Pearson called all construction companies, the county and city asked whether they had lost a road-grader.

Finally one construction company discovered its grader was not in the repair shop as assumed, and Mrs. Pearson was $20 richer when the company paid a "parking fee."

JUST A TOY FOR A BOY—This $50,000 observatory belongs to Charles Michael, 16-year-old honor student of Bucyrus, Ohio. His father built it on the family's 13-acre estate so Charles would have a good place to conduct his hobby, which is astronomy. It's equipped with a huge telescope with a 10-inch lens and a three-inch astrograph camera. Built in modern stone, the observatory houses a chart room, photographic laboratory and a library study.

HONORS G. A. R. SURVIVOR—This statue portrays 108-year-old Albert Woolson of Duluth, Minn., only survivor of the Grand Army of the Republic. Sponsored by the Auxiliary of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, the statue will stand in Gettysburg National Cemetery. It was sculptured by Dr. Avar Fairbanks, consultant in fine arts at the University of Utah.

NOT ON THE CARD—This impromptu, all-out wrestling match wasn't a scheduled event—it happened when 700 employees walked off the job during an unauthorized strike at General Industries Company, Elyria, Ohio. One woman was hospitalized and four persons were arrested before the near-riot was quelled. (NEA Telephoto)

Rural Gallatin Schools Open

Announce Dates
For Other Education
Buildings in County

Schools in Gallatin county determine their own starting dates, with rural schools in the county now in session. One rural school—Saline Mines—started Monday, Aug. 15, and others began yesterday.

Herschel Newcomb, superintendent of Shawneetown schools, has announced registration at the high school for Sept. 1 and at the grade school Sept. 2. Classes will begin Tuesday, Sept. 6.

In the North Gallatin County Unit system (Ridgeway), Principal James O. Austin has announced a meeting of teachers from all schools of the system at the Ridgeway school the morning of Aug. 29, with each school holding separate teachers' meetings that afternoon. Registration is scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 30, and the first full day of school will be Wednesday, Aug. 31. All school buses will start operation Aug. 30, it was announced.

Mr. Austin has announced the hiring of Mrs. Estella Kimble, who will teach English and Latin. She has a bachelor's and master's degree from the University of Indiana and has taught 31 years.

Mrs. Kimble last taught at Prophetstown, Ill., in 1953. Due to illness in her family she was forced to retire from teaching for two years.

The hiring of Mrs. Kimble completed the teaching staffs of all schools in the system.

Registration at the Equality schools has been announced for Sept. 1 and 2, with classes starting Sept. 6.

Earl Prather is principal of the Equality grade school, but the position of principal in the high school is still vacant.

William Williams, president of the high school board of education, has announced a meeting for this evening at which time it is thought a principal will be employed.

The post was made vacant with the resignation of Harry Walker the latter part of July. Mr. Walker, at Equality for five years, accepted a position as head of the schools at Witt.

To Improve Living Conditions for Trailer Dwellers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is going to make living conditions for trailer-dwellers more pleasant and healthy.

Under the housing law passed recently by Congress, the Federal Housing Administration is drafting regulations to provide loan insurance for building trailer parks.

But the government will do more than guarantee the loans for such projects. It will also insist on better living standards in such parks.

FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason said his agency "will set standards to bring about improved living conditions for people residing in trailer parks."

He said inadequate finances have prevented trailer parks "from keeping pace" with conventional housing operating under FHA standards.

The administration objected to a proviso in the housing law covering trailers. But when the President signed the bill last week, it was still in the measure.

Since World War II, from 1½ to 2 million persons have made their permanent homes in trailers. Industry officials estimate that about 65,000 new trailers are sold every year. There are now 750,000 in use.

Trailers are bought, according to one industry official, by many persons who must be ready to move quickly due to the nature of their jobs.

The new housing law permits the FHA to insure loans to trailer parks up to $300,000—at the rate of $1,000 for each trailer space. Mason said interest rates and mortgage terms now are being worked out.

He said government-insured mortgages will enable developers to provide improved facilities in these trailer parks.

Gasoline Doing its Best!

We doubt whether gasoline was ever put to more effective use than when it burns in the combustion chambers of the great 1955 Cadillac engine.

It provides power and eagerness and responsiveness that have no counterpart on the world's highways.

And how quietly it goes about its work! Even at the full legal limit of the road, the car is so silent in its operation that you can actually hear the gentle ticking of the electric clock.

And how efficient gasoline is in a new Cadillac. In fact, owners report that a single tankful is usually sufficient to carry this big, luxurious car through a full day of normal driving.

If you haven't yet learned for yourself what gasoline can do in the "car of cars", we suggest that you come in soon for a truly thrilling demonstration.

And after you have returned from your demonstration drive, we hope that you will remain for some very special news about cost and delivery.

You will find, for instance, that you can now become the owner of a new Cadillac after the shortest waiting period in many, many years.

And because of our extremely low used-car inventory, you will discover that we can give you a surprisingly liberal allowance on your present car.

You will find, in short, that Cadillac ownership has never before been as wonderful... or as practical... or as imminent as it is today!

Why not stop in soon and see for yourself? We think you'll find a combination of favorable circumstances that will be difficult to resist!

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

Belting of Valdez Takes Edge Off Build-Up of Archie Moore

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Archie Moore was having a big time for himself building his fight with Rocky Marciano at Yankee Stadium, Sept. 20, into a prospective $1,250,000 gate.

And then the International Boxing Club made the mistake of showing Nino Valdes to the millions who get their beak busting via television.

Making things worse, the IBC exposed the gigantic Valdes to a bloke who, generally speaking, deals only in knockouts. Handicapped by the finest quality of China chin that has come along in years, Bob Satterfield ordinarily either winds up with a resin rash or leaves the other guy for seriously dead. He barely missed placing a lily in the six-foot-three-inch, 215-pound Cuban's hand in the 10th round in Chicago.

By that time, Satterfield, who spotted Valdes several inches in height and 32 pounds, had taken considerable edge off the Moore build-up for the heavyweight championship match with Marciano.

For didn't Ancient Archie force this appointment by coming from behind to outgallop Valdes in 15 rounds at Las Vegas and then quickly knocking out the frightened and over-matched middleweight leader, Bobo Olson, at the Polo Grounds? Olson, for whom the job suddenly got too big in training, acted like a guy looking for a punch on the chin, so the venerable Moore promptly accommodated him.

INASMUCH AS OLSON stood still or retreated with a sign of welcome on his whiskers, boxing men threw out this mismatch as meaning nothing whatsoever.

But Valdes was the number one challenger, and the 38-year-old Moore was impressive catching the Havana Special in the last three rounds out there on the burning sands. This was the one that really unlocked the door leading to the rich appointment with Marciano and its unlimited possibilities. The new Valdes had won 11 straight, seven by knockouts. He had taken a 10-round decision from Ezzard Charles, turned Hurricane Tommy Jackson into a zephyr with a right-hand punch in the second round at Madison Square Garden.

If large Bob Baker had not also been a highly acceptable candidate, Valdes would have had the Marciano date then and there, but in a desperate attempt to clinch it, he once more took a chance with Moore, who had smacked him around in St. Louis two years before.

AFTER SEEING VALDES flounder around in front of Satterfield, you better understand why Al Weill, manager of Marciano, steered clear of Moore, when the gypsy was so richly entitled to the chance.

Why risk trouble with a cutie who can punch like Moore when you have much larger targets a way easier to hit in Valdes and Baker?

The totally inept Valdes also well illustrated why Moore, while still able to do 175 pounds, had such a soft time with those pawing off as heavyweights.

Meanwhile, the belting of Valdes will enable Satterfield to continue breaking his own record for having been flattened. The count now is 13.

Satterfield makes it real authentic when he is knocked out. He doesn't fall in sections, one at a time. Like Bombardier Wells, Phanting Phil Scott and other collapsible heavyweights of the past. He isn't tall enough for that. He is more of the Joe Beck-cit type.

Bob Satterfield falls flat on his kisser and stays there until carried out.

In view of what you see too frequently see these nights, that's a recommendation.

Brooks Still Look For Ball Park Site

BROOKLYN (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers listed three areas near Brooklyn today as possible future sites for their team, but the Los Angeles City Council made a pitch to have the Dodgers transferred across the country.

"We want to stay in Brooklyn," insisted Dodger President Walter O'Malley. "We will go nowhere else if there is a chance to stay there."

But, with efforts to line up city help in obtaining a suitable stadium site in Brooklyn apparently slowed down, O'Malley said that the team would consider as possible sites—if Brooklyn is out—neighboring Queens and Nassau counties on Long Island, and Jersey City.

HANGING ON—Casey Stengel appeals to the hired hands, settles for less and turns to the bench. The Yankee manager's first five pennants in the Bronx were considerably easier.

Yankees Definitely to Tour Japan and Orient

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel and the New York Yankees formally agreed today to tour Japan and the Orient this fall for a series of exhibition games against native professional teams and U. S. servicemen.

The trip will originate from New York, Oct. 8, regardless of whether or not the Yankees participate in the World Series.

The Yankees said the trip has been endorsed by both the U. S. State Department and the Japanese government as "an outstanding contribution to international understanding and good will."

Melis Decisions Nocero, Gets Shot At Chico Vejar

NEW YORK (AP) — Paolo Melis of Montreal, former welterweight champion of Italy, was matched today for a 10-round TV fight with seventh-ranking Chico Vejar at St. Nicholas Arena on Oct. 17 as a reward for Monday night's victory over middleweight Rinzi Nocero.

Melis, an 11-5 underdog, won a unanimous 10-round decision over Nocero of Brooklyn in their TV bout at St. Nick's. Toughy Nocero lost two rounds on low-blow fouls and was warned four other times for rough-house tactics.

Matchmaker Tex Sullivan said today, "We have closed for Melis and Vejar on Oct. 17. But, of course, if anything happens to Vejar on Sept. 14 in his fight with Tony DeMarco in Boston, we'll have to get another opponent for Melis."

That other opponent would be the winner of next Monday night's fight at St. Nick's between welterweights Gene Poirier of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Chris Christensen of Denmark, Sullivan said.

Mizzoo Loses Back, He Wants to Study

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Senior Bob Musgrave, who had been counted on as a starting halfback on the University of Missouri football team this fall, is dropping football to concentrate on his studies.

Musgrave, also a star on the university baseball team, said he was influenced by the possibility of a professional baseball career.

Cal Calls Candidates To Take Physicals

Lawrence Caluffetti, athletic director and head football coach at Harrisburg Township high school, today announced the dates for physical examinations and issuance of football equipment.

With the doctors of the city co-operating, physical examinations will be given at 7 a. m. Thursday of this week in Davenport gymnasium. All boys who expect to take part in any competitive athletics during the school year should take their physical examination at this time, Caluffetti said.

He will issue grid equipment at the gymnasium as follows: All juniors and seniors, Friday morning; freshmen and sophomores, Saturday morning.

Football practice will start next week.

Prep Grid Practice To Start Monday

CHICAGO (AP) — Football practice for member schools of the Illinois High School Assn. will get underway officially next Monday.

The IHSAA announced today some schools will issue equipment and give physical examinations before then, but no member school may start practice before Aug. 29.

No school may play its opening game before Sept. 16.

The IHSAA said approximately 375 member schools will participate in 11-man football this season, 25 in 8-man football and 20 in 6-man football.

Little League World Series Gets Under Way

How to Line Out A Title Bout IN THE Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore are legally bound today to battle for the heavyweight crown at Yankee Stadium on Sept. 20 but it would take the combined talents of Sherlock Holmes and the Marx Brothers to untangle the maneuvering involved.

The official signing almost hit a snag when Al Weill, Rocky's manager, demanded a $100,000 forfeit for a return bout. This delayed Monday's proceedings some 2 hours and 35 minutes.

It must have been quite a private hassle.

Chronologically it went like this: Weill showed up at the commission offices looking like the proverbial canary-stuffed cat. Quoth the wily Alsatian: "This fight isn't signed yet, and wouldn't have been unless our terms were met."

They had been, he smiled. Moore's camp would post the bond with Promoter Jim Norris for a return within 90 days — if Marciano loses.

All Newspaper Talk

Charles Johnston, Moore's manager, arrived next and sputtered that he thought the demand "was all newspaper talk." Now he believes what he reads in the papers.

"We thought it was just talk, although even Moore knew about it," Johnston fumed. "If the Marciano camp isn't worried, as they claim, why are they worrying about the forfeit. It's ridiculous."

Moore, trailing in his wake, fouled up Johnston's lines.

"I didn't even know about this $100,000 business," he said.

Then Julius Helfand, the chairman of the New York Boxing Commission, had his say.

"The signing was set for 12:30 p. m., but I was told that Moore had been delayed in transit."

Moore at 12:30 was sitting in the nearby offices of the promoting International Boxing Club. Rocky was in town at noon. The managerial masterminds must have been settling their differences in a sound proof room because midtown Manhattan seemed quite serene.

Helfand added that he had refused to accept the forfeit memorandum and the return bout clause as part of the contract for the fight. But he did estimate privately that even without commission sanction they apparently would be quite legal.

Rocky Appears Unconcerned

Ordinarily such maneuvering behind closed doors, and such tangled statements, might lead one to be suspect of the pending embroglio. But Rocky, the man with the most at stake, appeared quite unconcerned. He was calm and dispassionate despite the heat, the wait and the overplayed reports of his anger at Moore's optimistic precombat claims.

"I was annoyed when Moore was trying to get this fight," he explained. "He seemed to be trying to make people think I was afraid of him. But I'm not angry now. We'll settle this on the night of the 20th."

Moore still was making his claims that he would win in "the greatest fight in 50 years."

That, of course, remains in doubt. So does what happened before they signed the contracts Monday.

Dulles to Draw for Davis Cup Positions

NEW YORK (AP) — John Foster Dulles, secretary of state, will make the draw on Thursday for the Davis cup challenge round between the United States and Australia.

The U. S. Lawn Tennis Association announced that the draw would be made at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, N. Y., on Friday. Two singles matches are scheduled Friday, one doubles match Saturday, and two singles matches Sunday.

Nine-Year-Old Boy Bowler Knows His Stuff

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Nine-year-old Dickie Musialowski doesn't have to take a back seat to adults when it comes to bowling.

Rolling in the city tournament with his father, the young kegler banged out games of 180, 174, and 161 for a 513 total in singles competition. Then he teamed with his dad to post 1,200 in doubles.

Dickie, the envy of many much older bowlers, first started knocking down tenpins on his father's alleys when he was only four.

Fast-Moving Shoes Help Burglar Escape

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The burglar who ransacked Donald L. Miller's home wanted to make sure of a fast getaway, police said. Spike holes in Miller's dirt driveway showed the intruder wore track shoes.

Chi-Sox Go after Two in Attempt to Pass Yankees; No Games Played Monday

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

The key to first place will be in the cellar tonight—in the keeping of the last-place Baltimore Orioles.

"Frankly, I don't give a hang whether Cleveland, Chicago or New York wins the pennant if we can't win it ourselves," says Baltimore Manager Paul Richards.

But tonight, anyway, Richards' Orioles will determine which club shall lead the American League. Here's why:

The White Sox are a half-game out of first place but they can take over the top rung by two percentage points if they sweep a two-night doubleheader with the lowly Orioles tonight. The pace-setting Yankees, who meet the Tigers in a night game, can't do a thing about stopping Chicago even if they beat Detroit.

Richards, who left the White Sox at the end of last year to come to Baltimore, thinks Chicago "has the necessary pitching to win the pennant," but doesn't intend to make it easy for his old ball club.

Orioles Troublesome

The Orioles have given the White Sox as much, if not more, trouble than any other club in the league this season and Richards says there's liable to be a lot more in store for them.

Marty Marion, who succeeded Richards as White Sox manager, has nominated Virgil Trucks and Sandy Consuegra for tonight's tell-tale twin-bill while Ery Palica and George Zaverink will pitch for Baltimore.

The Yankees, who just swept three games in a row from the Orioles, will rest their hopes on fallstar Bob Turley against Tiger rookie Frank Lary.

Cleveland, only a game out of first place, will send southpaw strikeout ace Herb Score against Frank Sullivan of Boston in another key night game while in the other American League contest, Alex Kellner of Kansas City is scheduled to face Bob Porterfield of Washington.

Over in the National League, where Brooklyn's lead has recently been shaved from 16 games to a "mere" 11, the Dodgers will find out how much good Monday's 90-minute batting drill did when they meet the Cubs.

Clubs Enjoy Off-Day

All big league clubs enjoyed an off-day Monday but Dodger Manager Walter Alston, concerned by 9 losses in the last 13 games, put his charges through an hour and a half batting drill.

Don Newcombe will go after his 19th victory for the fifth time tonight against Bob Rush, who will be shooting for his 11th triumph.

James Cops Kitty Title From Stars

By DAVID NELSON

James Brothers crushed the All-Stars, 14-2, to win the Class A Kitty league playoffs and Ronnie's Stud to defeated Walker's Cleaners, 10-6, in the first National League playoff game, in Kiwanis games Monday.

James swept two straight games from the All-Stars to win the Class A Kitty title—8-5 Friday and 14-2 Monday.

The winners tallied 14 runs on seven hits, three errors and five bases on balls over Maszaros, the losing pitcher. The All-Stars scored twice on five hits and one error off Boyett, James' hurler.

For James, Boyett and Cline picked up two hits each and Abney, Roberson and Utter hit safely once. Cushist doubled and Wilson, Baldwin, Rauh and Jahn singled for the Stars.

Ronnie's Studio, after winning the first half and losing the second half to Walker's in the National league, won the first game of the playoffs by a 10-6 count.

Ronnie's scored ten runs on five hits, one error and eight free passes off Weatherly, the losing pitcher. Walker's tallied six times on ten hits, two errors and a walk off Molinarolo, the winning pitcher.

For Ronnie's, Hefner homered and singled and Bishop, Hassett and Spurlock singled once each. Weatherly led Walker's at bat with three hits. Parks and Vick collected two safe hits and Golden, Hatcher and Crews hit safely.

Wednesday's game: Ronnie's vs. Walker's, 5 p. m. at the town park. Griffiths or Guley, umpire.

A's Bring Up Kume, 3-8 Hurler at Columbus

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics today called up 29-year-old righthanded pitcher John Kume from Columbus of the International league.

Kume has a 3-3 record with Columbus, but lost three games by 1-0 scores. His earned run average is 3.53. He had a 14-7 record with Savannah of the Sally league last season and an 0-1 record there this year before joining Columbus.

Milwaukee Braves Keep Fan Up in Air

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves have a lot of fans who hope they'll keep their five-game winning streak going, but none is more enthusiastic than Bill Sherwood.

Sherwood has been sitting on top of a flapjole 75 feet in the air since June 23. When he went up he announced that he wouldn't come back down until the Braves had won seven straight games.

"It's been a long summer," Sherwood said.

themselves, oppose Robin Roberts, the majors' only 20-game winner, at Philadelphia, with Lew Burdette going for Charlie Grimm's second-place crew.

In the other two National League night games, Willard Schmidt of the Cardinals was nominated to go against southpaw Johnny Antonelli of the Giants, while Vern Law was the choice of the Pirates to face Art Fowler of the Redlegs.

Who Rides With Wyatt

by Will Henry

Distributed by NEA. Copyright 1954, 1955 by Will Henry. Used by arrangement with Random House, Inc.

THE STORY: Even while riding into Tombstone on a stagecoach, Wyatt Earp, a new deputy sheriff, has made a dent in the outlaws that run the town. He killed two bandits who tried to rob the stage. In Tombstone he forces the city marshal to resign. Then he receives a visit from Johnny Behan, a political power, who tells Wyatt the town doesn't want "a gun-tough from Kansas" to change its way of life.

VIII

Taking Wyatt's easy attitude for continuing agreement, Behan figured to read him off his orders, blunt and clear.

"Now get this, Earp. Neither you, nor anybody else, walks the middle of the road in this town. There's just two sides to Allen Street, ours and theirs."

"Who's on our side of the street?"

Behan couldn't be sure from the way he said it whether he meant it like it sounded or not. "You, if you're smart," he said carefully, "along with me and Shubell for sure, and maybe a few others here and there."

"Such as Bill Brocius?" Wyatt wanted to know.

"You'll get that answered no matter which side you take."

Wyatt moved to the door, held it open. "Goodnight, Mr. Behan. I've a stomach to fill and lodgings to find. You'll know where to locate me should you need the law some dark night."

Johnny Behan never did prove quite bright enough to cut the hog that history had hung up for him. Right now he was needing a little time to chew up Wyatt's answer, and he took it. But he wasn't so slow it didn't finally soak in on him.

"I suppose you know where this leaves you standing, Earp."

"I do," replied Wyatt politely. "I'd say right square in the middle of Allen Street."

He paused, not a foot from Behan, treating the Tucson politician to his first look at the famous, frostbit grin. "And do you know where it leaves you, Mr. Behan?"

One big hand grabbed Behan's coat collar, the other, the seat of his pinstripe pants. He was still strangling and treading air when Wyatt, 10 strides out the door, into the dirt of the road, dumped him to the ground. "Sitting, Mr. Be-han," he finished quietly, not even breathing hard, "right in the middle of Fremont Street."

Wyatt paused, tugging at the left side of his mustache. "But if you want my professional advice, mister, I'd suggest you don't spend the winter there."

It was the first and last time he put actual hands to Johnny Behan. Nobody saw him do it, and he never told anybody about it until years later. But for the record, and in somewhat less than the time allowed, he was standing alone in the middle of Fremont Street. Mr. John Behan was long gone down the gaslit stretch of the boardwalk toward Third and Allen.

After locking the jail, he followed Behan's course down Third to Allen. At the corner, he collared the first sober citizen asked him where was the best boarding house in town.

The citizen turned out to be high on a place called the Miner's Rest, run by a right decent young maiden lady over on the northwest, respectable, side of town. Wyatt thanked him, got Big Red out of the O. K. Coral Stable and headed downtown, following directions.

He was in for a passel of good jolts that evening. He got the first one of them when Evvie Cushman answered the door.

"Why, evening, Miss Evvie." Wyatt was no fool with women. He always had his own quiet way with them. "I didn't rightly expect the pleasure of seeing you again so soon. Is the landlady in, ma'am?"

"I am the landlady," she said bluntly.

This being the kind of shock any man could enjoy suffering, Wyatt bore up under it real brave. "I'd like a room for two, please."

"My last room was let an hour ago. To that nice young man on the stage, Mr. Ringo." The frost was on for sure, now. "It was a single room in any event, Mr. Earp. My suggestion for you would be the Cosmopolitan Hotel."

Wyatt's face set up. "What do you mean, 'for me,' Miss Evvie?"

"I simply don't take in hired killers. Good night, sir!"

"I'm not through talking, miss, and you're not through listening." It was the first time in her fine lady's life that any man had used that tone on her. The pure surprise of it stopped her.

"I've been in many towns," said Wyatt Earp slowly, "and worn many stars. In all that time, no outlaw has made my real trouble. It's always the good people who have. People like you, Miss Evvie," he finished softly.

"Are you quite done, Mr. Earp . . . ?"

"Not quite, Miss Cushman." The soft part was out of his voice, the iron back in it. "I'll tell you something now, young lady. I've been indicted for murder in every town I ever wore a star. Not by the bad citizens I gunned down, nor by their friends, but each and every time by the good citizens. The ones I'm paid to protect." He tailed it off with a slow etch of acid to it that cut into her like quicklime. "I don't like your kind any better than you like mine!"

He jogged Big Red down Allen Street, watching the sidewalk crowds and looking for Ringo. He was a long way from being happy.

G.I. Brides Find It's Small World

MUSKEGON, Mich. — Mrs. Janet Rawlings and Doreen Gee, who lived six blocks from each other in Oxford, England, most of their lives but never became acquainted, now live across the street from each other.

The two women married Muskegon men who were stationed at separate Air Force bases near Oxford but didn't meet until after they came to Muskegon with their husbands.

Both Janet, now Mrs. Harold Peterson, and Doreen, Mrs. Herbert Adams, get together nearly every afternoon for a "cup o' tay" and their husbands, who didn't know each other before either, have become good friends.

The two couples were married two months apart in 1953 and their sons were born within six days of each other.

Bantam Has More Lives Than a Cat

HILLSBORO, Ore. — Poppy Red, a tough young Bantam rooster, struts happily about his home near here despite enough rough treatment to kill an ox.

Poppy Red is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nelson who operate a service station and tourist cabins on a busy highway.

According to the accounts, Poppy Red was walking across the highway recently and was struck by a truck. After flopping about, he lay still. A witness, not wanting to see Poppy Red suffer, wrung his neck. Two boys, who were fond of the rooster, hit him with an ax handle. Then they dug a shallow grave and buried the bird.

Two days later, one of the boys, out of curiosity, exhumed the remains. Poppy Red was still alive. A few hours later, after eating water-soaked bread, Poppy Red gave out with a crow and is now as lively as ever.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

A recent survey revealed that three out of 100 drivers in fatal accidents were passing improperly at the time of the accident. Two out of 100 drivers were guilty of this violation in urban areas. The survey shows that in rural areas the number was four out of 100.

Before passing another vehicle be sure that you observe the signs along the highways. In many areas, too, a single yellow line or stripe on your side of the center line is used to indicate no passing zones. These will be found on hills, curves or at other hazardous locations. Do not cross these lines to pass another vehicle. (Sec. 58, Uniform Act Regulating Traffic.)

Where there are no such markings to aid you, use common sense before passing another vehicle.

One of the most dangerous illegal practices of the road—and all such practices are dangerous—is to pass another vehicle on the right hand side. (Sec. 54, Uniform Act Regulating Traffic.) Such maneuvers only lead to disaster.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

MRS. R. W. EVANS of McLeansboro looks delighted as she receives a check for $700, her prize for correctly identifying a "Mystery Movie" on the Movie Quick Quiz program on WSL-TV in Harrisburg. The mystery movie had been running for ten weeks before Mrs. Evans correctly named the old flicker as "Song of the Sarong." She won $50 for answering a preliminary question and $650 for the title of the mystery movie. When Mrs. Evans had given the correct answer to Jerry Reuter, show M. C., she said "I have known the correct title for some time." Mrs. Evans' husband is editor of the McLeansboro Times-Leader and is a native of Eldorado.

More Old Makes Of Automobiles

The Register recently published a list of names of automobiles which have been manufactured in the United States since the advent of the mechanically-powered method of transportation.

The list stirred interest on the part of many Register subscribers, as is evidenced by their comments. The names of three additional cars—Grant, Jewett and Star—have been mentioned to Register staff members.

Gallatin 4-H Picnic To Be Held Saturday

Gallatin county 4-H clubs will hold their annual picnic at the 4-H camp on the bank of the West Frankfort reservoir Saturday, Earl Lutz, Gallatin county farm adviser, has announced.

There will be entertainment for all—softball, shuffle board, washer and horseshoe pitching and swimming—Mr. Lutz said.

There are 16 home economic 4-H clubs and 13 agriculture 4-H clubs in the county, it is said.

Senecas Take Warpath In Land Dispute

BUFFALO, N. Y. — The Seneca Indians are on the war path.

The Senecas recently filed a $25,000 suit in federal court against the Allegeny State Park Commission.

The suit seeks to restore land to the Senecas which they contend was deeded to them under the "Big Tree Treaty" of 1797.

They say the state park commission has been renting a section of their reservation lands for 40 years at $40 a year to cottage owners.
